New Wood Burner Very Popular

The Automatic Heating Co., which is the busy agency for the Iron Fireman stoker has added to its line an automatic wood burning stove for homes without furnaces. These stoves have thermostat controls enabling the owner to fill the stove with wood of any kind, start a fire and forget about it the rest of the day. The thermostat regulates the heat and burns in proportion to the temperature needed. It burns the wood up so completely that ashes have to be taken up only about twice a month. The new stove will revolutionize the heating systems of all homes using wood for fuel. James M. Baker, head of the Automatic Heating Co., has a stove on demonstration in the office and the public is invited to come and see it.

Enough money has already been earned to pay the next dividend of four per cent on December 31st. A complete statement is published elsewhere in this issue of the Bulletin.
