Where to Get a Start In Life

You get your start wherever you can find it. But always remember that it is well to seek your start in the place where you hope later to find your career. Start among the people who will know you and help you when you move up. It's economy. And most young people will find it's done most easily in the small town.—Walter B. Pitkin in The Rotarian Magazine.

CURB REPORTER

Well, all the power-phone poles on the curb are being covered with pine tree limbs and are resembling Christmas trees. As soon as the colored electric lights arrive they will be put on each tree Buchanan's store is already decorated with Christmas ribbons, bells, etc. The new theatre is getting in shape for next week's opening, curtains have been put up, seats installed and modern equipment every way erected for convenience, comfort, attractiveness and safety; and those Chick Sales half moons on the vestibule doors are cute President Roosevelt and leaders are mapping program for next congress Daladier, prime minister of France, suppressed the French Labor strike by using the army The Lefty Flynns gave the Converse college girls a treat last night when they entertained them with their musical program Think of two old friends meeting in Tryon after an absence of 60 years. Mrs. M. O. Kelly and Harry A. Knott had that experience the other day.
