Dr. Preston's Talk Attracts Attention

When Miss Irene Clark, the county nurse, reported on Friday that Dr. John Z. Preston's address at the Statewide conference for better care of mothers and babies, held in Raleigh, was so well-received that it was highly praised by the conference leaders, her report sounded more like home town pride. But when a speaker on the American Educational Forum spoke over the radio on an NBC hook-up on Saturday at noon and quoted extensively from Dr. Preston's paper on rural obstetrical problems, the importance of the paper as a contribution to medical work was evident. Dr. Preston is a graduate of the medical college

Rogers Helping To Balance Budget

Carroll P. Rogers, representative from Polk county to the General Assembly is a member of the important sub-committee legislature representing leaders of four committees from the Senate and House appropriations and finance committees. A picture of the committee appeared in Saturday's Raleigh News and Observer showing the men behind locked doors at work trying to balance the state budget. This is the first formal joint committee of the senate and house in the history of the state. The committee is authorized to make recommendations for bills and to function as a body to raise revenue. The committee began work on Friday and after adjourning for the weekend will convene again this afternoon at 3 o'clock.
