Senate Committee Kills Carroll Rogers' Polk County Bill

Raleigh, March 16.—The senate committee on judiciary No. 2, today killed Representative Carroll P. Rogers' bill to place the Polk county board of commissioners on four-year terms beginning with the expiration of the terms of the present members.

Senator Ben Prince of Henderson, whose senatorial district includes Polk, opposed the bill upon request of Polk county's Democratic Chairman W. S. Green. The election law committee did not meet on the Rogers' bill to provide for a new registration of voters.

Representative Rogers said he believed the voters wanted the commissioners placed on four-year terms rather than staggered terms of six years each. He denied that the local government commission favored six-year terms, and argued the commission suggested staggered terms but did not specify the length.

Senator Prince said he opposed both measures—to place the county board of commissioners on four-year terms and to require a new registration of voters in Polk county prior to the 1940 election—because of a request made by W. S. Green of Tryon, chairman of the Polk county Democratic executive committee.

The senator read the following letter from Chairman Green:

Horse Show for Children Monday At Vaughn Creek

The Junior Horsemanship Horse Show will be held at the ring near Vaughn Creek on New Market Road at 2:30 Monday afternoon, March 27th.

Mrs. David Hedekin will be in charge. There will be classes for beginners as well as advanced riders. This show is not an ordinary horse show, but it is something entirely new, as the children are not put into classes according to their ages, but their ability. The more capable children must compete with those equally capable regardless of their age. The advanced classes will be required to answer questions on various phases of riding, hunting, and equipment. Since this is an experimental show, we hope the spectators will be patient.

Mrs. Hedekin wants all the children in town to come out on their mounts regardless of what they are and take part. She may be reached by phone No. 102.

The only skeet course in this section is located at Many Levels the Hunting Country place of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Hill. The course was first formally opened by Tim McCoy, the noted cowboy actor who was a guest of the Hills during a weekend about a year ago. Many Levels will be visited by those making the Garden club pilgrimage on Saturday.

Hobby Show today, 10 a. m., to 10 p. m. Amateur movies begin at 8 p. m., at the Lanier Library.
