FOR POULTRY FLOCKS

Pox Vaccination and Deworming.
All young pullets and cockerels should be vaccinated against chicken pox (sorehead) preferably when they are about 12 to 14 weeks old. It is not necessary to vaccinate any old birds to be carried over. The young stock should not be permitted to run with or on the same ground with old birds or other stock that is not vaccinated for at least 30 days after the vaccination and preferably not at all. Do not vaccinate pullets that have already come into production, as it will upset production. Pullets should be vaccinated at least 40 days before time for them to come into production. While the vaccination is for pox only, outbreaks of colds and roup are rather rare in flocks that are vaccinated for pox during the summer. Vaccinate the young pullets for pox and save your egg profits next fall. Your county agent or Home agent can furnish you a mimeographed circular on vaccinating for chicken pox, if you are inexperienced in this job.

Do not deworm the flock at the same time they are vaccinated. Wait at least three weeks after one of these operations before the other is started. To get results in deworming pullets a reliable product should be used according to the directions of the manufacturer, and the birds should be transferred to clean range about the second day after treatment. If a flock is to be dewormed do the job at least six weeks before the ton-aopoo.lxshrd etaoi hrdl cmfw birds are due to come into production.

Soft Ball This Afternoon

It will be the Kilowatters vs the Ball-the-Jacks again this afternoon at Harmon Field. Continuing a tussel in which the Ballenger-Jackson team has emerged winners in previous matches, the game this afternoon will find the Kilowatters in better condition to turn the tide of scores into their dug-out than in any previous match.

The game will start promptly at 6:30, and the members of both teams are requested by their managers to be at the field ready to play at this time. No Admission and all are invited to come out for an hour of real fun.
