JAPANESE POSTERS DENOUNCE AMERICA

Tokyo, Tuesday, Aug. 1.—Japanese police maintained a strong guard around the American embassy today after posters appeared in Tokyo streets proclaiming that the United States, together with Great Britain and Soviet Russia, is the "common enemy" of Japan.

The police guard was provided for the American embassy after rumors that a demonstration might be staged there against the United States' abrogation of its 1911 commercial treaty with Japan, but no hostile incidents occurred.

The posters in the streets, believed to have been rosted by an obscure ultra-nationalist political organization, said:

"Britain, America and Russia are our common enemy."

The Osaka newspaper, Mainichi said in an article by its political commentator that if the United States' denunciation of the Japanese-American commercial treaty ffected Japanese citizens residing in the United States will forfeit the loyalty of more than 100,000 citizens of Japanese parentage in Hawaii.

50c Down; 50c Weekly Buys Lot Here

A Tryon business man who owns a track of land within the town limits has cut it up into lots of good size and will offer them to the public for about $100 each and make it possible for anyone to own them by paying as little as 50c down and a minimum of 50c a week until the full amount is paid. The purchaser can make his payments as large as he desires and pay for the lot as soon as he wishes. Tryon is growing and workers are finding it difficult to get homes and lots within their budget.
