TRYON, N. C., THURSDAY, SEPT. 14, 1939

What would you do if a stranger stopped you on Trade street and asked where he could get some red worms. That's what happened to Nelson Jackson, Jr., Wednesday when Allen Rogers of Spartanburg asked where he could get some worms. Nelson referred him to Tryon fish headquarters at Arledge Hardware and Hose sent him next door to George Carson at Jackson's, who digs worms for the fishermen in that neighborhood. In just a few minutes Allen had his worms and was on his way fishing. Allen is a brother of Carroll Rogers of Tryon and is quite a noted singer and has been on International convention programs as well as many prominent district programs. He and his wife have been staying at Lake Lanier. . . . The doorway in the Tryon post office is getting in bad shape. So many people use the little post office that their foot tracks have already worn away the first floor at the entrance where the rain and weather beat in too . . . Game Protector W. R. McLean states that any person convicted of buying or offering for sale quail in North Carolina shall be fined not less than $50 and maybe imprisoned for 60 days

The minimum wage for South Carolina's textile workers will be raised to 32½c an hour on October 24, Administrator Elmer F. Andrews announced today.

Football Season Open

The Tryon high football season has been under way for over a week with the team fast rounding into shape. The turn out from the local school was exceptionally good with about eighteen candidates on hand. The squad will be further increased by the addition of eight or more huskies from Saluda. The Tryon group has already gotten down to hard work with some light scrimmage in spite of the hot weather. The majority of the boys have been working during the summer and are ready to play.

From the looks of the squad this early a good first team seems to be the prospects with the reserve strength being weak. One of the guard positions and a backfield post are the most important places to be filled. The end position which was vacant seems to be well taken care of by Harold Taylor if he keeps up at his present speed. The other positions are occupied by some of the old men and reserves but no one is assured of a berth yet. The addition of the Saluda school players will go a long ways in giving the fans better games and a better brand of football.

Bingham At Rotary

Samuel A. Bingham, Sr., who recently returned from Wyoming and other places of interest in the west will be the chief speaker at the Tryon Rotary club on Friday at 1 p. m., at Sunnydale Log Cabin. Mr. Bingham will show technicolor motion pictures of that beautiful country. The program will be in charge of R. C. Burnett.
