Judges Arrived At Saluda Apple Show

H. R. Niswonger of Raleigh, state extension specialist, was busy this morning helping with the Saluda Apple Show which opened today in Polk's mountain city. Beautiful apples in various sizes and colors attractively arranged in plates and racks made an impressive show. The apples are nearly perfect in shape, color and flavor. Authorities say the flavor is the best in the world. Albert Salley was arranging the apples in trays. County Agent J. A. Wilson was all over the place fixing this and that. Miss Minnie Lee Garrison, the Home Agent, and Miss Sue Koon, of Rutherfordton, judge of apple products were examining the attractive apple jellies, sauce, cider, vinegar, dried apples and canned apples. Some beautiful dahlias decorated the show room interspersed with pine boughs. Miss Bessie Sonner was putting up signs at two interesting tables for Mr. Niswonger. One table contained defective apples caused by various diseases which are explained. Another, an electric lighted table shows proper methods of cultivation and grafting to save trees. These two tables are very educational and should be seen by everyone having apple trees. It will only take a few minutes for anyone to see the display. The show runs through Sunday, October 8th.

Donkey Baseball at Landrum on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Proceeds for benefit of the Landrum Civic Club.

Caldwell Urges Fans To See Game Friday

Coach M. B. Caldwell, who has built up a fairly strong football team from last year's sophomores which lost every game played urges all local fans to come out to the game Friday at Harmon Field and see the difference that training and experience has made. The Tryon-Saluda team this year is organized and fighting as a unit. They have turned the tables on their first two opponents. They defeated Spartanburg Reserves 19-0 and the big Inman team 6-0. They face tougher opponents Friday in Marshall high, co-champions of the Blue Ridge Conference and victors over Tryon-Saluda last year. Coach Caldwell says the game Friday with Marshall will be the only conference game played in Tryon this fall and spectators are urged to boost the team by their attendance and advertising to others.
