Rev. D. M. McGeachy Elected Dean of Training School

Rev. D. M. McGeachy was elected by the faculty the dean of the Religious Training School for the remainder of the sessions of the school, of which there are six. Mr. McGeachy's signature will therefore, appear on all the certificates granted those completing seven out of ten sessions. Tuesday night he conducted the devotions and next Tuesday, the new pastor of the Landrum Baptist church, the Rev. Mr. Ellis, will make his initial appearance, as one of the cooperating pastors by conducting the opening prayers. He has been attending the school for some three weeks.

On December 5th, the school, will hold a Commencement Dinner at Sunnydale. At this dinner the certificates will be awarded, short one minute speeches will be made by those who have attended the school, and suggestions for next year's sessions will be made by all who have helpful hints to offer. Friends of the school are also invited to come to this community get-together and plans are being made to make the evening eventful.

Some have asked the members of the school if they might attend for the remaining four sessions of the school in order to hear the lectures on the Old Testament and to benefit from the teaching lectures of Dr. Hunter, without being obligated to attend the class discussions, the answer is YES and they will be cordially welcomed. The next sessions will be held on Tuesday night, November 7, at 7:30 at the First Baptist church, Tryon.

News of Miss Pensinger's Wedding In Arizona

Newspaper clippings from the Phoenix, Arizona, paper tells of the wedding of Miss Patricia Pensinger of Tryon, N. C., to Peter Call, well-known author and lecturer.

The wedding was performed at the First Presbyterian church at Yuma, Ariz., on October 1. Her brother, C. Wallace Pensinger, gave her in marriage.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. William Henry Pensinger of Tryon and of the late Mr. Pensinger. She was prominently identified with Tryon's Little Theatre group for a number of years but has spent the past several winters in Arizona between concert engagements. The Phoenix paper states, "She has already won considerable renown as a soprano. In addition to intensive training with noted American voice instructors, she spent three years in France and England, studying at Fontainebleau and London. She first met Mr. Call early in the summer when she worked in a play in Los Angeles, which was being directed by him. It was a love at first sight romance, which changed all her plans of returning to North Carolina.

"Mr. Call has been writing lyrics recently. As his bride has been turning her talents to writing books and music lately, the two will collaborate on a series of songs, she contributing the music, he the lyrics.

"The newlyweds are making their home at 2520 West Fourth street, Los Angeles."
