Bill Weigel is at sea again, headed this time for San Francisco from New York, on the City of Newport News. Having his Bulletin transferred from Allentown, Pa., to Oak Grove, Oregon. The Bulletin follows some people all over the world The cooking school now in session here for three days was held last week in Hendersonville and a prominent attendant at community cooking schools there states that it was the best she had ever attended That $50 prize offered by Avanti Electric Co. is the grand prize attracting visitors to the cooking school The European situation is keeping a lot of people busy these days. What we need most is to think right and for every mountain home to have its own chickens, hogs, cows, sheep, pasture, garden and orchard and plenty of dry wood cut in the shed. Then embargoes, boycotts, blockades, etc., will not make us really suffer Lefty Flynn had a telegram from David Niven the other day stating that he would definitely come to Tryon as soon as arrangements were completed for him to rejoin his regiment. In a press interview in New York Saturday David said it would be five years before he married and if he did it wouldn't be a movie actress. "Movie actresses," he said, "are sweet, but marriage hasn't half a

Polk County War Relief Work

The American Red Cross is asking from Polk county the following quota of heavier weight garments to be completed and sent in by January 1st, 1940: Eight men's, four women's and eight children's sweaters; and four women's and eight girls' dresses of heavier materials. This quota is only on sweaters and heavier weight dresses with full length sleeves. The need for this type of garment in war relief is practically unlimited; and Polk county is asked to exceed its quota if possible.

No work room for Red Cross work is contemplated at present; but all who wish to do such relief work in their homes will be giving a distinct service to war-stricken people. Directions as to sizes and types of garments can be gotten from Miss Mae Irene Flentye, secretary of the Polk County Chapter, who will hold open house in her home at 10 a. m. on Wednesday of each week to any who wish to meet with others to do relief work. The first meeting will be held this coming Wednesday. Materials for making sweaters and garments have been ordered and will be on hand.

In order to carry on relief work for sufferers from the war it will be necessary for the Polk County Chapter to receive special gifts of money for this purpose. For example, the yarn alone for the few sweaters requested in this first quota will cost some thirty dollars. The money which the Polk County Chapter receives in the annual roll call is not more than
