Luco Ritchie, 54, farmer of the Mill Spring section of Polk County, died shortly after noon Monday in an Asheville hospital following a heart attack suffered while he was driving his car on the outskirts of Asheville late Saturday.

Mr. Ritchie was rushed to the hospital by a son who was with him in the car when he collapsed. He never regained consciousness.

The body was brought to the Blackwell-Nichols funeral home at Columbus late Monday afternoon. Funeral arrangements, not yet complete, will be announced later.

Besides the widow, he is survived by four sons and three daughters, all of the Mill Spring community.

News of Paris

Many Tryonites listening over the radio this morning to the 7 o'clock broadcast from Paris heard a statement in which mention was made of Miss Woodward, who gave Bulletin readers a vivid account of her work among the Belgian refugees, in a letter to the Bulletin published on May 30th. The announcer who reported for CBS said that after the bombing attack on Paris, he met Ruth Woodward, an American from Fall River, Mass. An exploded bomb had burst a water main; and as she was unable to drive her car thru the street she had been obliged to wade thru water filled with broken glass from shattered windows. She had examined an unexploded bomb which she said was about a foot long.
