Rotarians Hear About European Situation

Boy Scout Executive Charles Lea, of the Palmetto Council, Spartanburg, who is a native of Liverpool, England, gave an interesting account of the European situation at a talk at the Tryon Rotary club meeting held on Friday at Sunnydale. Nelson Jackson, Jr., had charge of the program. Mr. Lea gave an outline of the aims of England, and France on one hand to hold what they have and preserve their economic life lines; of Germany, to increase her territory and dominate Europe; of Italy to rebuild the Roman empire; of Russia waiting the outcome of the present war, to take on more territory with warm water ports and to spread Communism in Germany and Baltic countries. If France and England are beaten and driven to their colonies, the speaker expects another war between Germany and Italy or Italy and Russia because of conflicting ideals. He doesn't believe the French and British will ever surrender; they will take their people and fleets to their colonies and carry on from there. He pointed out that England was only a small island, but the British empire is spread all over the world and has tremendous resources.
