

Mountain Dew-ings At Saluda

By Adulas, July 16

Our many and sincere apologies for the inaccuracies in our last paragraph yesterday. It should have been written: Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Palmer and son, "Joe Sam", of Allendale, S. C., and daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Alfred Owens, of Columbia and the latter's son "Palmer"; and, in alibiing, we'll pass the buck to Pam Burney Belser and to our shock at seeing "Joe Sam" fancy-free and mulchy bandaged and adhesive-taped from a recent automobile accident.

Mary Jane Pidgeon entertaining for her house guest, Ellen Stone-weather of Memphis, with a chicken supper at "Stackhouse".

J. Henry Clippard of Asheville, stopping by from Tryon to discuss summer events with pater L. L. Clippard.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ogden, Jr., of Habana, Cuba, arriving by train from Greenville and taking the H. C. Davis cottage for the summer; and being very proud of their two-months-old daughter, Mimi.

Dr. W. K. Fishbourne of Moncks Corner, (Metropolis of Hell-Hole Swamp) S. C., reporting the theft of his car while attending Seminar lectures on Smith Hill; and, after a radio broadcast by the Highway Department to apprehend the car, Chief Gurley Laugh-ter finding it safely parked adjacent to the Lecture Hall. (Ye Correspondent's note: Our Stolep Car Operative No. 711 had meantime reported a car of this description being parked at a popular oasis-ish place in Landrum. But, "Doc" you know how 'tis and how your Santee-Cooper Authority has established a precedent in "Taking over" private property for the good of the whole).

And while we were on Smith Hill, we found Dr. Frank H. Richardson, a founder of the Seminar and long time Consulting Pediatrician for the State of New York lecturing to an intensely interested group A bridge foursome in progress in "The Tent", Mrs. Sam Ravenel of Greensboro and wife of the Dean of the Seminar, Mrs. Broadway and Messrs. Dawson of the Table Rock Laboratories, Greenville, S. C., and James of the Crevim Products Company, Westchester, N. Y., being the players . . . Baby-Food salesmen being jealously on guard against "sampling" of their product and sales - promotional gifts . . . Ralph Poole, dubbed the Seminar Glamour Boy, all fancied-up in a lavender shirt, grey striped suit and looking most "Esquire-ish" . . . A vivacious brunette from Wisconsin reading the New York Times and wearing a white turban that looked powerful like one we saw in a parked car night before last . . . And our own Doctor "Lesesne" Smith taking a well-earned spell of breathing of his advocated Ozone.

Saint's Day Greetings today for Carmen who, by the space of her muy bonita employer, Senora J. D. Hedges of Tree Tops, was scheduled to celebrate her patron Saint's day with a trip to the movies and a picnic on a mountain top "30"
