War Relief Canning

Saluda made a neighborly gesture last week with donations of 22 bushels of apples to the canning project. The donors were Albert Salley, C. E. Sanders and Fred Arledge. From Mill Spring, Mrs. Quincy Powell and Mrs. Gladys McIntyre contributed two bushels of beans. Landrum was represented by the Rev. E. E. Bomar, who brought to the canneries beans that happily had been prepared for processing by Mrs. Bomar. Other contributors were Walter C. Hill, Miss Helen Roberts, B. C. von Kahlden, Mrs. H. L. Arledge, Andrews & Swann, Mrs. C. C. Curtis, Mrs. F. P. Bacon, Mrs. George Bay and James Brooks.

Three hundred forty-four cans were packed on Wednesday last and on the preceding Wednesday 371, which brings the total of cans to 4,889. The goal of 5,000 cans set by the committee will have been reached on Wednesday next, which marks the last canning day. This does not mean, however, that there will be no resumption of work or that interest in the project has flagged. The committee plans to hold a meeting this week to determine the nature of the work most essential for Britain's needs and to discuss the possibilities of its being carried on in Tryon. Every volunteer worker engaged in canning has expressed a desire to continue work throughout the autumn and winter. On the last two canning days several newcomers put in an appearance. Miss Elisabeth Watson, teacher of domestic science at the Tryon high school, brought her entire class to

J. P. Thackston Passed Away Sunday

John P. Thackston, 71, retired contractor, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. I. Henderson, on Sunday at 12:15 p. m. Although Mr. Thackston had been in declining health for a number of years, his death came unexpectedly.

Funeral services include a short service at the McFarland Funeral Home at 2:00 p. m. today followed by another service at 3:30 p. m., at the graveside in Oakwood cemetery, Spartanburg, where burial will follow.

Survivors include: Two sons, W. C. Thackston, of Asheville, and John P. Thackston, Spartanburg; four daughters, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. N. L. Wilson, and Miss Elizabeth Thackston of Tryon, and Mrs. George Stahl, of Forest City. Four brothers, Homer of Shelby, Harvey of Waycross, Ga., and Smith and Claude Thackston of New London, Conn., and one sister, Mrs. Leila Hart of New London, Conn., also survive.

The personnel of the Montgomery and Crawford Hardware store of Spartanburg with which Mr. Thackston was formerly connected, have been asked to meet prior to the ceremony at the graveside in Oakwood to serve as honorary escort. Mr. Thackston was a member of the Southside Baptist church, Spartanburg, and a member of Magnolia Camp No. 28 Woodmen of the World.
