WAR RELIEF

The committee of the Association for War Relief wishes to express its enthusiastic gratitude to the men and women of this community who volunteered their services to those who donated food and money to the canning project organized in June. With their loyal and zealous cooperation, the success achieved has been even greater than was anticipated. Instead of the 5,000 cans of food, which was the goal they hoped to achieve, the Association now has on hand 5,218 cans of fruit and vegetables, stored at the Pacolet Plantation and awaiting orders for shipment to England.

The contribution quota was set at $500 but this sum was almost doubled, the funds on hand having reached the amazing total of $877.75. The success of this venture is especially to be commended for it gives testimony to a community spirit which is a live and vital organism that can be involved into active practice when need arises. The editor of The Asheville Citizen, in an editorial on Tryon's War Acres, stated: "—the effort is a community one and will probably do more for the spirit of love in Tryon than it accomplishes abroad." This, in a sense, is true, for in working to minimize the sufferings of others, one is spiritually vitalized. It is for this reason, in addition to the practical considerations, that the committee is planning to continue relief work throughout the winter. A meeting to formulate plans will be held this week and readers of The Bulletin will be

Young People Register For School Next Week

The first registrations for the Inter-Church Training school were handed to the registrar this morning. They were from fifteen boys and seventeen girls from the upper classes of the Tryon high school. These alert young people thus lead off what ought to be a splendid enrollment passing last year's for this second year of the school. Other high school students are to be heard from in Columbus and in Landrum. They will enter a special teacher training class conducted by Rev. Archie Ellis, after they have attended the lecture by Dr. Sewall.

Enrollment cards are now in the hands of the pastors of all the neighboring churches and those desiring to enroll may do so on Sunday at any church. The registration fee is not due until the first session of the school on Tuesday night, October 1st, at 7'30. Fee 50c. Student fee 25c.

FOOTBALL TODAY

Tryon high school and Boiling Springs high school will play football this afternoon at 3:30 at Harmon Field. A close struggle is anticipated.
