

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

10c PER COPY (The World's Smallest Daily Newspaper) 1c PER COPY
SETH M. VINING, Editor $1.50 Year In the Carolinas

Vol. 13. Est. 1-31-28 TRYON, N. C., THURSDAY, OCT. 3, 1940

Picturesque Tryon

The beautiful, picturesque little city of Tryon, which attracts numbers of Spartans as commuters, draws its cosmopolitan population from far and near, and that is but natural. Tryon has much to offer the health seeker, the pleasure seeker, the student lover of nature. Tryon is not "at the foot of the Blue Ridge"; it is part and parcel of that range, and its everlasting hills rise in majesty and grandeur with their tossing pines, oaks and beeches, mixed and mingled with ornamental and flowering trees of various kinds.

There is a spirit of progress and unison in evidence in Tryon. It reaches full expression in its civic clubs, where team work is maintained in a manner that brings results. Local problems which otherwise would remain unsolved are handled by these agencies. When one has been solved others are taken in sequence, with each mastered.

Tryon Kiwanians are a fine group of representative men working in bonds of community interest in which first things find first place. Without neglecting civic issues and ventures which add to and enhance the distinction of a town constructive programs are incessantly being framed and developed to provide for the less fortunate and favored. The achievements to this end only incite the clubmen to further and diversified efforts in a field where endless possibilities exist to typify the spirit of the Good Samaritan or

Continued On Back Page

Polk County Farms Get Electricity

The County Agent just received information from the N. C. R. E. A. concerning electricity on the farm in Polk County. In 1934 Polk County among other North Carolina counties ranked 73rd among them in number of rural customers. In 1940 this placing had been brought up to 50th place.

In regard to number of miles of rural lines in Polk County it ranked 74th in 1934 but has been brought up to 53rd place in 1940.

Some of the increase in rural mileage and consumption has been brought about by the cooperation of Rutherfordton Rural Electrification Association and part of it by the Duke Power Company.

The N. C. R. E. A. reports that there were 21,066.20 miles of rural electrical lines in North Carolina on July 1st. Of this amount public utilities own 13,574.59 miles, municipalities 1,184.60 miles, and R. E. A. 6,307.20 miles.

Hobby Show To Be Held At Hendersonville

Hendersonville's Fall Festival will be featured this year with a hobby show on October 17, 18, 19. Tryon and all people in this section are invited to enter their hobbies in the exhibit and attend the show. Anyone interested may write Mrs. P. H. Jackson, Box 31, Hendersonville or Mrs. Edmond Ford, Phone 319-J at the Waverly House.