Tryon High School 7; Marshall High 7

The Marshall high officials, refusing yesterday morning to postpone the local football game forced the Tryon team to give a muddy exhibition and deprived numerous spectators of the privilege of seeing the game. The playing of the two teams due to the downpour of rain and the muddy condition of the field was confined to straight football with the speedy Tryon backs unable to make their powerful end runs and cutbacks click on account of the slippery turf.

The game started off with Tryon taking the lead and knocking at the goal line twice in the first quarter only to lose the ball when the backs slipped in the open. The Marshall team was unable to threaten until after the locals scored on Jack Melton's dash around left end. The extra point was secured on a clever end-skirt by Dutton Beatson. At the middle of the second quarter, Homer Shields, Tryon's star tackle received a knee injury and was forced from the game. His presence was sorely missed and possibly led to the visitors being able to score late in the fourth quarter by line plunges.

The play of the Tryon team did not seem up to par with the backs being weak on blocking and allowing the opposition to sift thru. The line was slow in charging and at time looked ragged in tackling. The light condition of the Tryon squad, however, slowed it up considerably on wet ground. The game was also marred by numerous penalties.
