ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AUGUST 20, 1928, AT THE POST OFFICE AT TRYON, N. C. UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS, MARCH 3, 1879

FOR OVER A YEAR

more than a year, For the American Red Cross has been sending aid to the victims of the Thuropean war. Since the "allout" erial warefare against Great Britain was begun last September, practically all of its efforts have been directed to the aid of British sufferers. Up to August 31 last, more than $5,000,000 had been ex-Since then, more than pended. $3,000.000 has been appropriated, most of which has already been spent. In addition to the expenditures of money, clothing, medical dressings and garments have been sent to Great Britain, and dis-tributed to those in need. Norman Davis, Chairman of the Red Cross, asserts that Red Cross money and materials are distributed under the supervision and personal direction of trained Red Cross workers. and that not one cent of Red Cross funds nor a single item of Red Cross supplies has been confiscated by any belligerent governent. Assistance is not given by the Red Cross to Germans, Russians, Japanese or Italians, since these governments have notified the International Red Cross Committee that they would care for their own peoples.

Here is a part of a letter received from England, which was quoted last Sunday in the Charlotte Observer:

"Dear Ladies of America:

"I thank you for the bed-suits vou sent us. I have been in the hospital nine months and not out vet but I have seen Mum and Dad. They send me comics once a week. We have eggs for breakfast and porridge as well. I am glad you
