CALL FOR AID

The Tryon Workroom Committee has received an urgent plea from the New York headquarters of the British War Relief Society for more and more warm clothing for the civilian population, especially those who have lost all their belongings. Tryon has responded generously to the first call for clothes but there is a dearth of men's clothing and Britain, facing a winter that will tax all her strength, has a very desperate need of warm jackets, overcoats, sweaters and suits. The answer to her plea for aid should supersede everything else and it is to be hoped that the men of this community will respond as generously as the women did. Every home must surely contain a discarded jacket or lounging robe, sweaters or suit. A staff of volunteer workers is eagerly awaiting the chance to repair such garments. Won't you please make your donation today to the Tryon workroom, over the A&P store?

There is also an acute need for sweaters and scarves, and the wool for knitting these articles is available at the workrooms at any time. Even the most elementary beginner can make a scarf. Those who have any problems in knitting sweaters can consult Mrs. Harwood, who will be at the workrooms every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 to 12. On Friday afternoons the workrooms will be closed to the regular staff of workers but will be open to a group that will concentrate on cutting garment material for the following week.
