

CURB REPORTER

Nelson Jackson, Jr., is out again after a month's illness following an operation at St. Luke's hospital. . . . Tryon merchants have the nicest selection of Christmas merchandise ever assembled in the community and some buyers report that the prices on some things are even lower than offered in the big cities. Every dollar spent in the community helps to build it and make possible the many worthwhile things done for all the people in the Tryon trading area. When you trade here you help yourself as well as the county.

. . . . Additional contributors to the Trade Street Christmas decorations include Mrs. Willis Parsons, Miss Clare Bell, Bishop F. H. Touret, Mrs. C. M. Gottfried. . . . Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy will be shown in "Saps at Sea" at Tryon Theatre on Sunday. On Monday and Tuesday, "All This and Heaven Too" will be shown. . . . A child's pair of glasses have been left at the Bulletin office. . . . M. B. Caldwell reports a bunch of keys with Clinton, S. C., on them left at the school house. . . . The Germans are still bombing England. Charlotte is raising money for the aid of the Greeks. . . . A large crowd is expected to hear Mark Wollner, the violinist next Wednesday at Lanier Library. Tickets on sale at Missildine's and the Library. . . .

The Ladies Auxiliary Circle of the Tryon Presbyterian church will meet on Monday afternoon at 3:45 with Mrs. Sara Beyea at the home of Mrs. Chas. W. Higley in Gillette Woods. Topic for round table discussion: Listen, The Wise Men Have Come. Members desiring transportation may call Mrs. G. I. Henderson.

Mrs. Nell Stewart is a patient at St. Luke's hospital.

Cunninghams Building Home Near Harmon Field

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cunningham who have occupied the Brintnall guest house since coming to Tryon from Illinois last season, have bought a tract of land from R. C. Erskine and have already started the construction of a house overlooking Harmon Field road.

Harold Shuttles of Asheville gave a most enjoyable and informative talk at the Thursday meeting of the Lanier club. His demonstration showed taste and artistic skill. After the meeting a delightful tea was served with Mrs. George Canfield and Mrs. Anne Bosworth Greene as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hanford of Cambridge, Mass., are guests at Pine Crest Inn.
