Mother Goose on the Air

1.

The Luftwaffe

Hark! Hark!
The great guns bark!
The bombers are coming to town
To scatter fires,
And crush the spires,
And rain destruction down.

Pat-a-cake, pat-a-cake, bomber's man,

Bring your bread-basket as fast
as you can,

Drop the "eggs" from the Thames
to the Dee—

That is the food for baby and me.

"Pussy cat, pussy cat, where have you beeh?"

"I've been to London to visit the queen."

"Pussy cat, pussy cat, what'd you see there?"

"I saw a bomb right under her chair."

"Pussy cat, pussy cat, what did you say?"

"I said 'miaow,' and she took it away."

2.

The R. A. F.

"Airman, O airman, good airman," quoth I,

"Whither, O whither, O whither
so high?"

"To sweep the bombers out of the sky,

And I'll be back again by and by."

The North wind is cold,
And Jerry is bold.

And what will our airman do then,
poor thing?

He'll put on more flannel,
Fly over the Channel,

Though icicles hang from his wing, poor thing!

The Spitfire is a humming-bird;

It sings as it flies.
It brings us late tidings,
And never tells lies.
