

CURSORY RHYMES

("We'll go to the wood," says Richard to Robin-Mother Goose.)

"We're going to stick," says
granny to mother,
"We're going to stick," says
sister to brother,
"We're going to stick," says
father to son,
"We're going to stick," says
everyone—
"We'll fight, and we'll stick, till the war is done."

"We're going to work," says fashion to labor,
"We're going to work," says farmer to neighbor,
"We're going to work from Glas-
glow to Dover,
And we're going to fight till the war is over;
We're going to work," says everyone,—
"And we'll fight, and we'll stick, till the war is won."

What are little nations made of,
made of?

What are little nations made of?
Snips, and sales, and under-dog tales—

That's what little nations are made of.

What's the New Order made of,
made of?

What's the New Order made of?
Protection, and vice, and everything nice—

That's what the New Order's
made of.

Herr Hitler, while the plaudits ring,

Drink deeply from your cup of
bliss;

Perhaps your future will not bring Another birthday just like this.
