"Will Take About $900", Says John Moore In Estimating Building Cost

The new community-county fair building to be erected at Harmon Field in place of the dilapidated green building will cost between $800 and $900 says John Moore, local contractor, in estimating the cost after following the blue prints made by Russell Walcott and Shannon Merriwether, architects. The building will be 30 feet wide by 100 feet long. The front end will contain offices and other needed facilities and will be available for county fairs, community fairs, apple shows, horse shows, picnics, family reunions, pageants, dances, and other recreational entertainment.

Kales Gives $100 Toward Harmon Field Building

William R. Kales, Detroit business man who has made Tryon his winter home for many years, has started the ball to rolling again to accumulate funds for the Harmon Field Fair Building. A previous gift from Mrs. Chas. B. DuCharme, also of Detroit and a promise from F. I. Barber, Forest City Coca-Cola Bottling executive, have inspired C. J. Lynch the chairman to go ahead with the building project, counting on the cooperation of the general public, many of whom have not given toward the other buildings. Donations to the Fair Building Fund may be sent to C. J. Lynch, left at the Tryon Bank, with any of the merchants or sent to the Bulletin office.
