Mr. Harmon Vanderhoef, Jr.
British War Relief Society, Inc.
Tryon, N. C.
Dear Mr. Vanderhoef,

As Representative of the British War Relief Society here in London, I feel that I must write to tell you, and through you all your helpers how deeply and sincerely grateful are the people to whom these gifts from America have come. It has often been difficult for them to obtain the names of the donors or donors committees to whom they wish to write letters of thanks and for that reason it is possible that you may not have had direct testimony from the beneficiaries themselves of their thankfulness as often expressed to me here for these things which they so badly need. Scores of letters pass over my desk weekly and are sent on to America in the hope that there they will be readdressed to the donors, but we feel that sometimes they go astray.

I am suggesting to the British War Relief Main Office in New York that a system be adopted making it possible for these recipients to express their gratitude to the proper people. Certain suggestions have been made and in due course of time you will probably receive a request to so inscribe your consignments that English people here may send their thanks direct to you.

Until that happens, please allow me on their behalf as well as
