TRYON, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1941

CURB REPORTER

Mrs. William Fred Swann pulled a violet cut of her garden on Thursday morning. Just shows you what a long summer we have had in Tryon, or is it next spring! . . . Weatherman Creasman reports a low of 40 for Thursday and a high of 61 . . . C. M. Howes who came to Tryon over 40 years ago from Maine says he suffered more from the heat in Maine than he ever did in Tryon. We thought that was a pretty good boost for Tryon weather, but Dr. A. Edwin Keigwin of New York City, who is now visiting W. C. Bates, is here now looking for a place to spend a month. He says he first came to Tryon about 1882 when he was a little boy and lived at the McAboy place. His last visit was about 25 years ago. He says one winter it was so cold in Virginia that the breath from a horse's nostrils froze. He got on the train for Tryon and found the thermal climate so mild that he stayed a month. He says he has sent many people to Tryon to get the benefit of the healthful climate . . . Don Wing has changed his Bulletin to Oak Park, Ill. A new subscription goes to Wilma Manning at Johnston City, Tenn. . . . A letter of thanks from President L. B. Kinports of the Steamship and Tourist Agency association, New York says that the visit at the

BOOK SHOP OPENS

The Tryon Book & Paper Shop will re-open for the season on Saturday morning, November 1st. It was just twelve years ago that Tryon's first and only bookstore opened. Although its volume of sales has never been very large, the shop has specialized in books of importance and has been generously patronized by the many interesting people who have been attracted to the town and either settled here or have returned for the winter season year after year.

This year the shop's new stock is composed in large measure of both recreational reading and important works, both fiction and non-fiction, dealing with various aspects of the international situation.

Union Thanksgiving Here At First Baptist, Nov. 20th

Union Thanksgiving Services for the Tryon church will be held on Thursday morning, November 20th, at the Tryon First Baptist church, according to an announcement by the dean of ministers, Rev. D. M. McGeachy, of the Presbyterian church. The preacher for the Thanksgiving sermon will be the Rev. George M. Schreyer of the Tryon Methodist church.

No Night Service Sunday At Presbyterian Church

The Tryon Presbyterian church will not have an evening service this Sunday on account of the District Rally at the Rutherfordton Presbyterian church.
