"In Nothing Be Anxious"

The following poem by Mrs. A. L. Shapleigh of Tryon appeared in the November issue of the Moody Bible Institute Monthly:

This world is Thine, dear Lord, and reassures
 My troubled heart, torn by much buffeting
 The storms of life. I know that Thy commands
 Are Thine enablings, therefore I believe I may be carefree in a world of care, Possessed and garrisoned by Thine own peace That passeth understanding. I would be So wholly yielded to Thy blessed will
 That prayer and supplication might become As natural as breathing, my requests Made known as to a Father who delights
 To hear a dear child's voice and answers him
 With more of blessing than he asks or thinks.
 The world knows nothing of Thy promised peace,
 But sorely needs to see its blessed power
 In lives kept calm amid the fret and strain
 Of each day's common tasks, and when the waves
 And billows of adversity sweep down Upon the soul and threaten to engulf
 And drag it from its moorings in Thy love.
 Forgive me, Lord, that I have failed to take What Thou hast offered, that the cares of life And urgent claims of work done in Thy name Should ever draw me from the place of prayer,

 From sitting at Thy feet to hear Thy Word.
 Let me no longer rob Thee of the joy Of keeping by Thy Peace this heart of mine.
 Forbid that I should rob another soul
 Of that which I might give if I were stayed Upon my God. "In nothing anxious be,
 In everything by prayer," shall henceforth be
 By Thine enabling true, dear Lord, of me.
