

A Merry Meeting

It might be dangerous business for one woman's club to "take off" another. But there was nothing save fun and laughter, with no sting in it, in the recent skit played by the clever members of the Lanier Club, entitled "A Meeting of the Garden Club".

Mrs. Harkness Smith, the indefatigable coach, had lined up a group who played their parts so well that one convinced spectator remarked "I did not know that Mrs. Cristy had arthritis so badly."

Mrs. Sprague as jittery hostess and Mrs. Conrad as smoother of tense situations were splendid. Mrs. Tracy Hale with flowery costume and still more flowery language brought down the house, while Miss Effie Holden played an amusing contrast with her severely plain and practical suggestions.

Mrs. Brannon and Miss Faye Sprague gave most intelligent portrayals of the less intelligent younger members, while Mrs. Vanderhoef, at first a haughty trouble maker succumbed at last to the mollifying flattery of the club and graciously consented to exhibit her geraniums.—M. H.

This is the first of a series of teas and plays to be given by the Lanier club. Judging by the crowd and their enthusiasm these events will give much pleasure.—A. F.

Miss Roberta Rodgers of Ottawa and Boston is a guest of Mrs. H. C. Metcalf.

All the proceeds of the Christmas Bazaar of St. Agnes Guild, to be held tomorrow at the Parish House, 2 to 6 p. m., go to charity; 25 percent to British War Relief.—Advertisement.

RADIO TABLES
BOOK RACKS
LOUNGE CHAIRS
CEDAR CHESTS
COFFEE TABLES

make ideal Christmas presents. So do Sewing Boxes and Magazine Racks. All these are reasonably priced and they make practical and attractive gifts.

The Ballenger Company

Furniture Dept. 2nd Floor
TRYON, NORTH CAROLINA