Spartanburg Motorist Is Killed When His Auto Leaves Mountain Road

Tommy Graham, 28, Spartanburg mechanic, was killed Saturday night about 10 o'clock on the road above the Tryon Country Club. Witnesses stated that the deceased tried to avoid a mud hole in the narrow road on the side of the mountain and ran over an embankment. The top of the car was pierced by a stump as the machine rolled over, hitting Graham and crushing him against the car. Hospital attaches said that death was due to compound fracture of the skull and jaw bone. Two other occupants in the car at the time of the wreck escaped injury, and they summoned help. Later he was removed to a hospital in Spartanburg, where he died. At an inquest held at the McFarland Funeral Home in Tryon at 3 p. m., Sunday, a coroner's jury empanelled by Coroner John Z. Presson, returned a verdict that "the deceased, Tommy Graham, came to his death by an unavoidable accident while driving a car."

A total of 10,420,000 persons were employed in agricultural work November 1, a much more than seasonal decline of 1,112,000 workers from the number on Oct. 1.

The British ration books for October contained tickets for the purchase of two eggs only for the entire month, and no extra meat, cheese, or butter.

CURB REPORTER

The weather for Monday was another 72 high and 39 low . . . The News Bureau from Cornell University reports that George D. Wick, '45, Chemical Engineering student, has been pledged to Delta Kappa Epsilon . . . Editorial in Charlotte Observer this morning comments on the pride of all North Carolina has in the selection of the Duke football team for the Rose Bowl game. Tryon is particularly interested in view of the fact Coach Wallace Wade married a Tryon girl, Miss Frances Bell. And there's another interest: Duke plays Oregon, home state of Tryon's football coach, Edwin Beach. However, Mr. Beach was graduated from the University of Oregon instead of Oregon State. A few weeks ago the Sunday Oregonian newspaper commenting on Oregon people who were in New York listed: "Laurel Edwin Beach, born in Lexington, Oregon, is another musician commanding attention. He went to Whitman college for three years because he wanted to study under Howard E. Pratt, head of the conservatory of music there; then jaunted to Chicago for 'just a visit', but remained two years studying drama and music at Bush Conservatory of Music. He did some lyceum and chautauqua work and studied under Frederick
