COMMUNICATIONS

To the Bulletin:

Tryon now having, by town ordinance, become a bird sanctuary and the news thereof being broadcast by devious and sundry means, this locality is sure to become a mecca for bird-lovers and ornithologists. Having been in the past a somewhat active member of the American Ornithologists Union and at all times interested in birds, I would like to express my appreciation of Town Council's action in so promptly cooperating with the Garden club in this exemplary project. Both of these groups are to be congratulated and their sanctuary project now becomes a community project, well deserving the wholehearted cooperation of every Tryon citizen and visitor.

In this connection, I respectfully offer the following suggestion: That a check list of birds identified within the sanctuary by qualified observers be compiled and made available to residents and visitors. And that a "master" copy of this check list be posted on the bulletin board near Missildine's Pharmacy and this be kept up to date with new records and corrections.

Mr. George H. Holmes, whom I consider a most careful and experienced observer, has quite a comprehensive check list of his own compilation of Tryon birds. However, there are quite possibly equally as authentic records of other species observed within the sanctuary limits. Therefore a composite list of all records by other observers would be more

JOHN PANTHER

John Thomas Panther, 58, passed away Monday night about 8:45 o'clock at his home at Lynn after a sudden attack of illness on Thursday morning. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3:30 at the Lynn Baptist church with the Rev. B. G. Henry of Tryon and Rev. E. W. Bailes of Forest City, officiating. Interment in Tryon cemetery.

Mr. Panther was a native of Polk County and had lived here all his life and had been active in the civic affairs of his community. He had served as deputy sheriff and as a member of the Lynn school board and as an officer in the Baptist church. He was a mechanic by trade.

The deceased is survived by his widow, the former Miss Julia Davis; four children, Roy Panther of Lynn; Mrs. R. H. Reynolds of Canton, Ga.; Sidney Panther of Sumter, S. C.; Ray E. Panther of Forest City, and three grandchildren; also two sisters, Mrs. C. M. Williams and Mrs. E. E. Cantrell of Spartanburg, S. C., and two brothers, Gaither B. Panther of Columbus and Loyd Panther, U. S. Navy.
