More on Sugar Rationing

Children born after the registration dates will be entitled to a normal ration of sugar, and may be registered at any time by parents or guardians at the Rationing Board where the parents or guardians registered.

Persons inducted into the Armed Forces of the United States or those leaving the United States for more than thirty days must surrender their war ration books to their local boards. Rationing Books must also be returned to the local rationing boards within ten days after the death of a person for whom the book was issued.

Persons who become confined to an institution for a period likely to exceed ten days must surrender to the administrative head of the institution their ration books, which will be returned to them upon discharge from the institution.

Special provisions are made for consumers who did not register on May 4, 5, 6 or 7th. Upon good cause being shown they may register after May 21st at the local Rationing Board having jurisdiction over the area where they reside. In cases of unusual hardship, boards may permit, at their discretion, registration before May 21st.

Consumers who by reason of illness require more sugar than the normal allowance may apply to their local boards for the additional quantity required. There is a special form for this purpose which must be accompanied by a doctor's certificate stating the amount of sugar required and explaining why the additional sugar is needed.
