SOFTBALL RESULTS

The Bushwhackers defeated Soumerco in softball Tuesday by a score of 5 to 4.

Neighborhood Meets

During the past week 32 of the 36 neighborhoods in Polk County held their meetings with one member of the County Agricultural Workers Council present.

At the meetings the agricultural workers explained the price ceiling law, the sugar and gas rationing systems, and the people of the neighborhood elected their essential truckers. These truckers were elected at the request of the tire rationing board to help them more equally distribute tires and to assure each neighborhood a means of hauling its farm produce.

Each neighborhood chairman in each neighborhood has been designated by the County Rationing Board, as head "rationer" in the neighborhood. This was done to prevent so much extra driving for the sugar canning cards, supplementary gas cards and whatever

At the same time it was almost impossible to hear over standard broadcasts because of electrical interference. A large number of these sets have been sold in Tryon In the list of degrees presented at the University of North Carolina this week, Miss Bell Jackson of Tryon received the degree in journalism. As far as we know this is the first time a Tryon student has received a degree in journalism. Miss Jackson was editor of the Tryon high school news and was associate editor of her Averette college newspaper before going to Chapel Hill for her degree. Honorary degrees were conferred on Governor J. Melville Broughton, Dr. C. M. Cooper of the State Health Board, and Dr. James G. K. McClure, head of the Farmers Federation. Dr. McClure has been honored by Yale and Harvard with honorary degrees and he has taken a leading part in the upbuilding of farm life in Western North Carolina.
