Merchants Delivery Service In Serious Danger!

Local Rationing Board Chairman Dudley C. Smith met with the Merchants association Thursday night and gave some very pertinent facts on the rationing situation, especially the gas and tire shortage.

We gather from this information that the delivery service is in great danger of being cut out, unless we as merchants, and our patrons cooperate to the fullest extent to cut down on deliveries. As there is no provision made for delivery trucks to receive tires. There has been some criticism as to the amount of canning sugar that the local board is issuing, so after Mr. Smith's information as to how the board arrives at this amount, and the information he has from the State Economics Dept, we as a group feel that this matter is being handled on a fair basis. Also we want the public to know that we are cooperating with the board to the fullest extent, as they are sacrificing their time and effort for the good of us all.

CURB REPORTER

Well, it is nearly the middle of July in Tryon. The high temperature Thursday was 89 but that night it was so cold doors had to be closed. Thursday morning the low at Creasman's was 60 and the rain registered .13 of an inch. Wayne V. O'Neil who has been spending the summer in New Hampshire says he has never spent a more comfortable summer than in Tryon. He bought the Bowes house in the Hunting Country on the Ridge road where he gets the mountain breezes; this is his first summer in Tryon. . . . It is Sergeant Lewis C. "Buck" Moore now. He has been promoted and gets his mail in care of the New Orleans postmaster, 14040592, Hq., Sq., 6th Air Force APO 825 which doesn't mean a thing to us. He may be 2,000 miles away from New Orleans or swimming in the Mississippi River . . . . A new subscription entered for Miss Sara Elliott at Biltmore, N. C. . . . Also one for Troy Walker at Verona, N. C. . . . Have you registered for your gasoline yet? Mr. M. B. Caldwell says 173 people registered at Tryon school Thursday, the first day. A group of volunteer workers were not kept busy because many motorists failed to register. Saturday is the last day to register. The hours are from 10 to 4. These workers have volunteered their services
