

5c PER COPY

$2.00 PER YEAR

ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AUGUST 20, 1928, AT THE POSTOFFICE
AT TRYON, N. C. UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS, MARCH 3, 1879

THE TRYON DAILY BULLETIN

The World's Smallest Daily Newspaper, Seth M. Vining, Editor.

Vol. 15. Est. 1-31-28

TRYON, N. C., TUESDAY, JULY 21, 1942

HERE FROM PANAMA

Emerson Edney who has been in Panama Canal Zone since his graduation from Tryon high school 7 years ago, has returned home to register and volunteer for the Army. He hopes to get in the Air Corps. He has seen Hoke Jacobs, Buck Moore, Brownlow Martin and Burgin Fortune, other Tryon men in the service in the Canal Zone. He came by boat to New Orleans.

GIRLS AT WORK

A Smith college graduate, the editor of the University of North Carolina Woman's College newspaper and a debutante from the University of Chicago, three charming young ladies, had their working clothes on, sleeves rolled up and were mopping the floors of Missildine's Hall on Monday, getting it ready for a recreation center for Camp Croft soldiers and other service men visiting Tryon for the day or weekend. Here they will be able to stop and rest, write letters, read, play games and otherwise enjoy a little of home life. The girls were Misses Ann Bingham, Peggy Lincoln and Ruth Rowe.

ATTEND RALEIGH MEET

C. J. Lynch, civilian defense chairman and Dudley C. Smith, rationing board chairman, leave this afternoon for Raleigh to attend a state meeting to study rationing and price administration problems.

Old or new copies of The Tryon Daily Bulletin for sale at 5c each.

CURB REPORTER

Weather Monday: 73-96

Last call for 1941 taxes. Tax Collector is giving notice this week through the papers that the law requires all property on which taxes for 1941 have not been paid, to be advertised for sale in August Col. C. H. Burkhead has learned of two army friends who have been reported missing in the battles of the Philippines, Col. J. H. Ball and Col. Alexander Quintard. Both of these officers have lived in North Carolina and were instructors for the North Carolina National guard Roy Palmer, merchandising and advertising manager of the Duke Power Co., Charlotte, has been appointed State dimout technical advisor to the State Civilian Defense Council, for the purpose of getting the best results on black-outs along the Atlantic coast. Mr. Palmer is considered one of the nation's foremost illuminating experts and has represented this country at the international illumination meeting in England. Mr. Palmer's family spent their summer vacation in Tryon last year. . . . Please remember to send your soldiers' new addresses to the Home Friendly club Rev. and Mrs. D. M. McGeachy have received a letter from their son, Lieut. John David McGeachy, some-where-in the Pacific

Continued on Back Page