START HOME BAKERY

Miss L. Craig-Wallace, a native of Scotland, who has been in this country 12 years and came to Polk County recently from Washington, D. C., is in partnership with Mrs. L. J. Welden of Chicago, in cooperation of the Golden Krisp Home Bakery, Tryon, N. C. They are making their home in the Metcalf Lodge at Columbus and for the present will have their bakery foods on sale Saturday mornings at Andrews & Co., Balenger's, and Farthing & Elliott's. If the demand for their bakery foods justify it they will be placed on sale more frequently. Miss Welden is the baker, and she has had seven years experience in a diplomatic house where she baked unusual foods for distinguished guests all over the world.

Nurses' Emergency Helpers

To take the place of the Nurses' Aides course, which proved too exacting in its requirements to suit our small community, it has been decided by the Citizens Service Corps to start a course for Nurses' Emergency Helpers. The initial requirements for this course will be 20 hours of Red Cross home nursing and 20 hours of Red Cross first aid, and new classes in both of these will be started if necessary. Those who have satisfactorily completed these two courses may volunteer for advanced training which will be given under a special supervisor at the St. Luke's hospital.

There is real need for these Nurses' Helpers, both white and colored, to assist at the hospital and in private homes, and also to

CURB REPORTER

Weather Thursday: Low 30, high 63. . . . Among those reported hunting wild hogs in Nantahala Forest this week were C. O. Story, C. M. Eargle, Harrison Bridgeman, Amos Foster and D. V. Tallent. The men are said to have hunted hogs in one of the wildest sections of North Carolina near the Georgia line in Clay County. Mr. Story had two live little wild pigs in a truck Wednesday. One of them had brown stripes running up and down his back. By standers said it had more wild Russian hog in him than the other pig. Curt Eargle was exhibiting the lower jaw of a fierce boar which he killed. . . . The large circulation of the Bulletin makes it one of the most economical mediums through which to let the public know what you want. Elbert Arledge, printer, has received orders for Christmas cards from Mississippi, Louisiana, Wilmington and other places. . . . Today is Friday, the 13th, which reminds us that Ralph Porter of Tryon, now on furlough from Fort Benning, Ga., parachute troops, made his first trip in an airplane on Friday 13th. The number of the airplane was 13, so he jumped out of the plane and landed safely with his parachute. He has been up in an airplane eleven times but has never come down in one. He likes it even though the training is stiff. He is
