AT LANIER CLUB

The regular meeting of the Lanier club on Jan. 4th was one of great interest and variety, presenting four speakers who represent different phases of our war activities.

As Miss Betty Doubleday of Tryon told her experiences in Africa when she was a representative of the American Red Cross, one could be sure that not only did she find her work rewarding but also that soldiers in hospitals appreciated the Red Cross through Miss Doubleday's services and personality.

Chaplain Broadus Wall of the U. S. Naval Convalescent hospital at Kenilworth, Asheville, told of his work in preparing men to return to civilian life, of the men's appreciation of the Christmas gifts sent from Western North Carolina, of the recreation and activities provided for the men in hospitals.

Lieut. Marvin Golden of Moore General hospital called himself assistant in reconditioning—mental and physical—giving a picture of the care taken for these two sides of the needs of men in the hospital.

Major V. Johnson of Camp Croft spoke of the efforts of his office in helping men to settle law, business, allowance, allotment and insurance problems. Through his department bond purchases for last November and December amounted to 84% of Camp Croft's military payroll.

The hostesses for the social hour that followed the program were Mrs. B. B. Turck and Mrs. Daniel P. Mitchell.—Coitributed.

Mrs. Sam Walker was called to Detroit Monday by the illness of her little nephew, Barry White, the little boy had a piece of a nutshell lodged in his windpipe. When Mrs. Walker's last message came, the doctors had succeeded in removing part of the shell, but had Barry in an oxygen tent, and would not try for the remaining part until the next day.

Members of the Columbus lodge of Woodmen of the World are serving a chicken supper Saturday night at the Woodman hall in Columbus.
