

STAMINA—

The side that wins is the side with stamina, and the staying power called stamina comes from something deep within. It comes from background and principle and character. It grows into an individual, or a company, or a nation with day to day development.

When foresight, betrayed by unpredictables, falls short of our present need, stamina alone must bear the brunt. We are proud of the 740 members of our organization in the Piedmont Carolinas now in uniform—and we are proud of those who remain behind to carry added burdens and to help meet our dual obligation to the service of war production and to the maintenance of a vigorous domestic front.
