

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

The World's Smallest DAILY Newspaper. Seth M. Vining, Editor.

5c PER COPY

TRYON, N. C. MONDAY, AUGUST 13, 1945

CURB REPORTER

Weather Friday: High 88, low 55; Saturday high 86, low 56; Sunday high 83, low 63 . . . The world is full of tension now, waiting for the expected Japanese surrender. When it is officially announced the Tryon fire siren will go off. Two hours later the public will assemble at Tryon Theatre if it goes off before 5 p. m. If the siren goes off after that time the service will be held at the First Baptist church where a program prepared by the Home Friendly club will be presented by the ministerial association and Mayor F. P. Bacon. The merchants were debating this morning as to when and for how long they will be closed. Of course all of us could fast for several days without any serious harm, but those of you who must have something like coffee had better be prepared. Buy your needs today, because there is talk of being closed more than a whole day; depends on when the official announcement comes. . . . We may shout and make whoopee, but the fellows we want to honor will not be able to see it. Let's clean up the town and country roads in the meantime. That will give them a good welcome when they return. In their absence they have thought only of the good things about us. They have bragged about their town and county. "God's Country" some of

Continued on Back Page

DR. EDSALL PASSED AWAY ON SUNDAY

Dr. David Linn Edsall, who has been a winter resident of Tryon since 1935, when he and Mrs. Edsall built their home in Gillette Woods, died Sunday, Aug. 12, at his home, 988 Memorial Drive, in Cambridge, Mass., following nine days of pneumonia. Dr. Edsall was born in Hamburg, N. J., on July 6, 1869. He graduated from Princeton University in the class of 1890, took his medical degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1893, and has been awarded the degree of Sc.D. by Princeton and Harvard. He was Professor of Therapeutics, Pharmacology and Medicine in the University of Pennsylvania from 1907 to 1911, and Professor of Preventive Medicine in Washington University from 1911 to 1912. In 1912, he was made Jackson Professor of Clinical Medicine at Harvard University, and became Dean of the Harvard Medical School in 1918. In 1921, he was appointed also to be the Dean of the Harvard School of Public Health. He held both of these offices until he was made Emeritus Dean of both these schools. From 1912 to 1923, Dr. Edsall also served as Chief of Medical Service in the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, Mass.

He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the Association of American Physicians; the American Philosophical Society; the National Research Council, and other organizations, and for many years was one of the Trustees of the Rockefeller Foundation. Dur-

Continued on Back Page