TRYON, N. C. TUESDAY, AUGUST 14, 1945

CURB REPORTER

Weather Monday: High 84, low 65 As this is written at 10:25 a. m., no official news has come that the war is over. Crowds in New York and other large cities have gone wild with joy over the Swiss report that the Japs have surrendered on Allies' terms. The Town of Tryon will sound the fire siren for the local celebration. Two hours later the public is invited to assemble at the Tryon theatre if the siren goes off before 5 p. m. After that time the Baptist church will be the meeting place. . In the meantime we all can pray and make plans to welcome our boys back home. The kind of welcome and the way of life we make for them the future is the kind of celebration that counts in the long run. They will need our fellowship and the enjoyment of peace among ourselves. They will want to see us in a spirit of cooperation, striving toward worthy goals all the time. There is so much to be done. They will want to have a part in the accomplishment and in the fruits of our combined labors. . . For the moment our minds are unsettled waiting for the official news of the war's end, and for the official program the government has outlined for the expansion of business with less restrictions. I can't figure out what Ned Reynolds' Ad means in to—

TRYON CLOSSES FOR V-J DAY

All Tryon business houses will be closed for V-J Day, according to a brief survey made Monday afternoon by the Merchants Association.

If the announcement comes before 2 p. m., stores will close as soon as possible and stay closed that afternoon and also all of the following day. If the announcement comes before 2 p. m. stores will close at once and re-open at 1 p. m. the following day.

An appropriate service in celebration of the day has been arranged with the cooperation of the ministers, the Home Friendly Club, and Mayor F. P. Bacon. This service will be held at Tryon Theatre IF the siren announces it before 5 p. m. IF the siren goes off after 5 p. m. the service will be held at the First Baptist church.

MISS SEVIER RESIGNS

Miss Anne Sevier, of the Tryon High School faculty, has resigned to accept a position as instructor in Freshman and Sophomore English at Winthrop College.

During her stay in Tryon Miss Sevier has identified herself with a number of civic affairs of the community. In addition to her school work, she was sponsor of the Beta club, faculty adviser of the High School news and other school activities. During the past summer she taught Bible at Converse college. She has a master's degree from the University of South Carolina.
