

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

The World's Smallest DAILY Newspaper. Seth M. Vining, Editor.

5c PER COPY

TRYON, N. C., THURSDAY, NOV. 1ST, 1945

CURB REPORTER

Weather Wednesday: High 79, low 47 . . . Eisenhower says food and fuel shortage and idle youth presenting problem in Germany. James Allied Control Commission for failure to set up administrative machinery. Butter increases in price five to six cents on Nov. 8th. . . . The name of Sidney Lanier has been selected for admission to the Hall of Fame at New York University, according to a message received at Macon, Ga., birthplace of Lanier, who spent his last days near Tryon . . . Town of Tryon is sowing rye grass on some of the public places, such as the long narrow strip between the railroad and street . . . Business changes are taking place around Tryon. E. R. Wincher, photographer, has moved from the Ballew building next to Blue Ridge Weavers, and is now over Missildine's where the U. S. O. was. Jack Blackwell, who was General Electric appliance dealer before the war, has rented the Ballew building and will open up for business as soon as merchandise arrives. . . . Stewart Bradshaw, who opened his radio shop under the A&P some time ago, reports a rushing business. Leonard Porter, the Fixit Man, has more than he can do. The Farmers Federation building which was destroyed by fire, is up again with roof and sides and will be better than ever. Earl McCraw, who opened the Texaco Service Station, reports getting along nicely and next to his place R. O. Andrews, whose term ended yesterday as postmaster, will open his Furniture and

Continued on Back Page

Many People Interested In Coming To Tryon

The number of inquiries for general information about Tryon has increased in the past few weeks. Most of these people have heard about Tryon through friends. They write the Chamber of Commerce for general information and about hotel and boarding house accommodations, or apartments to rent. Further correspondence develops interest in buying property and making this their permanent home. The number of visitors to the Chamber of Commerce office in the Hester building has also increased. There are two kinds of Tryon folders for them, but no hotel folders are available at present. President R. E. Brantley and the directors are making plans for a banquet meeting this fall.

Diplomat Buys Homesite In Gillette Woods

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander V. Dye of New York, have come to Tryon to make their home and have bought a lot in Gillette Woods through G. Harrison Bridgeman. They plan to build right away. Mr. Dye recently retired from the U. S. Diplomatic service after 30 years in many countries.

Tryon Boy Scout Troop No. 1 meets tonight at 7 o'clock at the School. Each Scout is expected to be in full uniform.

Farmers in North Carolina have been selling their cotton at one to three cents a pound above the government purchase price, just the reverse of last year, says Dan Holler of State College.