QUESTION: How is the best way to put egg whites with other mixtures?

ANSWER: Home economists at State College suggest that you fold in gently the beaten egg whites with other mixtures to get the best combination, using a light under-and-over motion. For omelets and souffles, fold the heavy mixture into the beaten egg white, not the whites into the other mixture. Don't overmix, or you will lose some of the air you have already beaten into the egg whites.
