TRYON, N. C., THURSDAY, DEC. 13, 1945

Weather Wednesday: High 45, low 22 . . . (It is warmer this morning but snowing) . . . Three Tryon Boy Scouts paid a visit to the Tryon Town Council meeting Monday night as part of their civics work, and sat through the entire session. They were James Arledge, Herbert Edwards and Joe Lewellyn. Mayor F. P. Bacon, a pioneer Scouter of Tryon and for years chairman of the Polk County Boy Scout organization, welcomed the visiting Scouts and that he hoped they would part in civic affairs when they became men and would sit in councils, legislatures and congress. To reach the top in Scouting the boys have to learn something about 21 different occupations. Thus Boy Scouts have an opportunity to get a well-balanced education and at the same time enjoy it. WORK PROGRESSING AT COLUMBUS MILLS

Columbus Mills, Inc., is the name of the firm to open soon in the old cotton and silk mill building in Columbus. Charles Ramsey, the superintendent, has been here for sometime supervising the installation of machinery.

The products of the mill will be narrow fabrics. To the average layman that doesn't mean anything, so a reporter of The Bulletin had to ask Mr. Ramsey for some details. He unbuttoned his coat and showed the pretty colored cloth label giving name of the suit, etc. "We make such things as that", he said, "and a variety of woven cotton and rayon trimmings for upholstery or anything that needs a narrow cloth border. The mill will make nothing wider than two inches." Mr. Ramsey said he hoped to employ about 100 people within a year. One of his problems now is the housing situation. He will have to look for a house himself this spring. At present he and Mrs. Ramsey are occupying the home of Mrs. C. W. Morgan in Tryon. Anyone having a room or apartment or house to rent for those who will want to work in the mill may notify Mr. Ramsey in care of Columbus Mills, Columbus, N. C.
