Dear Mr. Vining:

I just read in The Bulletin that the first wagon went from North Carolina to Tennessee in 1795. I made the trip from Bristol, Tenn., that same way but was too young to remember much about that one.

A few years later we went back for a visit by wagon and returned to Tryon. I won't forget that trip as long as I live, for it meant a lot to me. We picked up my first pony then.

I remember Tryon had the nicest watering place on the entire trip. At most other places we drank up stream from the horses and tried to drink before the dog got in first. In Tryon there was a place for the horses and the dog; also a spigot for us.

I wonder where those few good tax paying dogs get a clean drink.

They had a swell place then, and I don't think they paid taxes.

I am wondering if there would be a chance to learn more about that first trip by wagon, or if you only have the date.

Things have changed so much since I first remember, I wonder what it was like in 1795.

I believe we were the last ones to make a trip like that by wagon. Cars and roads have been improving ever since. People pay taxes to build them.

The poor old dog pays, but he doesn't get much.

I enjoy The Bulletin very much.
Lee Cowan.

P. S.: Had a phone call from Nelson Leonard, thanks to The Bulletin.
