

Hallowe'en Rulers To Be Crowned By Mayor

The three regal couples who will rule over the Hallowe'en ghosts, goblins, witches and what-nots at the Tryon school Carnival this Thursday evening will be crowned during the festivities by Mayor F. P. Bacon. The coronation ceremonies will climax the evening.

The latest ballot count shows that the following candidates for the coveted honors are leading in their respective departments: For kings—Edwin Cromer, high school; Steve Blackwell, grammar grades; Shields Flynn, primary grades. For queens—Mary Hooker, high school; Arminta Barber, grammar grades; Jane Ford, primary grades.

While members of the student body have rallied enthusiastically in support of their favorite candidates, balloting by parents and friends among the general public has been slow, according to Mrs Charles C. West, director of the popularity contest. This, she points out, is regrettable, as proceeds from the Carnival go toward the purchase of physical education and recreational equipment that would be otherwise unobtainable.

The popularity contest votes cost but a penny each. The value of supervised Hallowe'en activities is inestimable.

Tryon Bulletin:

Tryon, N. C.

Dear Sir:

These halfway lies that some people are telling to try to get their Republican candidates elected even make some of their candidates sort of ashamed. After that ad came out in The Bulletin last Friday about the two of us who are running for Constable in Tryon.

He knows I was in the army like he was and the ad pretended I wasn't. It said I hadn't or couldn't make "any such statement" about being a G. I. or clean or industrious or born and raised here or a lot of other things that took up a lot of space.

Of course I haven't made "such statements" and neither has Elmer. Somebody else did it for him and tried to fool the people about me.

I could make them, but most everybody around here knows me, so what's the use. For the few who don't I would just like to set things straight.

From what these ads have been pretending, you would think there wasn't a Democrat who had ever been a G. I. or who wasn't a bum.

Yours truly.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE
for Constable, Tryon Town-
