

ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AUGUST 20, 1928, AT THE POSTOFFICE
AT TRYON, N. C. UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS, MARCH 3, 1879

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

The World's Smallest DAILY Newspaper. Seth M. Vining, Editor

5c Per Copy

TRYON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, AUG. 27, 1947

Weather Tuesday: High 90, low 66, humidity 76 . . . Landrum, S. C., which has been waking up the past few months, making general improvements and advertising its wares and services in The Bulletin, is adopting another modern big city custom, its business houses will close all day September 1, in honor of Labor Day . . . 19 nations of North and South America have agreed to stick together on defense against outside enemies . . . A writer in the New York Times says: "These Sunday and weekend drivers should realize, that the accumulation of roadside trash will make the highway as unattractive to them as to others. State, parkway and local police have been asked to enforce the state penal and highway laws that make it a misdemeanor for anyone to throw or deposit rubbish on the roadsides within highway or parkway limits." . . . An item in The Asheville Citizen showing road improvement to be done in this section, says: "Polk—Grading and structures of 0.587 miles on county road beginning at junction at 108 in Columbus and running

Continued on Back Page

Softball Tournament Gets In Nip-And-Tuck Stage

Tryon Processors defeated Adams-Millis 11-7 Tuesday night and got on equal terms with three other teams that have won one and lost one. They include The Baptists, Blue Ridge Weavers and Adams-Millis. Each team is automatically eliminated when it loses two games. These four teams have each lost one. The Blue Ridge Weavers play the Tryon Processors today at 4:30 and the Baptists will play the Adams-Millis at 6 p. m. The winners of this contest will play on Thursday to find out which team plays the Firemen in the finals. The Firemen have won two and lost none. The Methodists were eliminated several days ago.

Baby Hospital Does Record Business

The Spartanburg Baby Hospital at Saluda, N. C., is doing a record business this summer, over the past two or three, Dr. W. H. K. Pendleton, president, said Tuesday.

Dr. Pendleton said that 104 babies and 83 mothers are at the hospital now.

Evidence that the climate and care makes the youngsters grow is shown in a pair of twins, Dr. Pendleton said.

At birth the twins weighed 3 pounds. When they came to the hospital, June 1, they weighed 6 pounds. Now they weigh 11 pounds and are still putting on weight.—The Spartanburg Herald.

On Sept. 1, the standard milk ordinance goes into effect in North Carolina.