

CURB REPORTER

Continued from Page One

place to put them, some of them still throw their trash on the street within a few feet of the cans. But more and more people every day are using the cans. Some persons have been seen to come along and pick up other people's trash and put it in the can, just because they feel this is their community and they hate to see it littered with trash. . . . The Waynesville Mountaineer says it doesn't know the answer as to why 22 persons were convicted at the August term of Superior Court for driving drunk. Editor Russ seems to think the ratio of drunken drivers to population of the county very high. He didn't stop to analyze the figures of other counties. Rutherford was much higher in proportion. That county has a recorder's court to dispose of cases more frequently. Polk's 22 cases were all the cases from the February court to August. A number of the drunks were out-of-county people from South Carolina, Henderson, Rutherford and Transylvania Counties. Patrolman Jack Cabe states there should have been more convictions in Polk County, but the county being small does not have enough officers to catch the violators. Editor Russ said what puzzled him most was the number of violators caught transporting and manufacturing. It is true that Polk is near Whiskey Spartanburg County, and some people with more liquor than the law allows get caught bringing it out of South Carolina into Polk County. The reason some people get caught manufacturing liquor is because Polk County liquor is considered by many to be the best and they are willing to pay the price for it. The manufacturers have lived in these hills all their lives and their families have made liquor since they first settled in this country. They see no harm in it. So as long as people prefer white liquor and are willing to pay the price, some people will be found who will take the chance of making it. It will take a lot of officers to prohibit it. The cheapest way is not to be a customer.

Winners of the Bridge Tournament Tuesday night were Prince and Princess Czetwertynski from north-south and R. R. Benham and Mrs. C. W. Nagel for east-west.

The football game scheduled for Wednesday with Hendersonville was postponed until next Wednesday.

Sons were born Wednesday at St. Luke's hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Dempsey of Landrum and to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Blackwell of Columbus.

Miss Laura Peasley has returned to Tryon from New York.

General and Mrs. J. K. Pars have returned from their vacation in the north.

COLUMBUS NEWS

Continued from Page One

ker will return with them. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Arledge and Scott visited in Seneca, S. C., last week-end.

The Intermediate Group of the Baptist Training Union enjoyed a social Monday evening at Stearns gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Herbert of Enoree, S. C., have moved into an apartment on Peak Street.

Messrs. Herron and Haynes have moved into their new place, "Hallelujah Hill" just outside the city limits.

J. W. Gantt spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. B. T. Gantt, Shelby, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lanning of Dallas, N. C., were up for the week-end with their parents.

Charlie Foster continues very ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Claude Scoggins.

SAVES TIME SAVES WORK
GETS QUICK RESULTS

—THAT'S WHAT AN AD in THE BULLETIN does for a person having something to sell, or who wants to buy something.