

ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AUGUST 20, 1928, AT THE POSTOFFICE
AT TRYON, N. C. UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS, MARCH 3, 1879

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

The World's Smallest DAILY Newspaper. Seth M. Vining, Editor

5c Per Copy

TRYON, N. C., TUESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1948

Weather Monday: High 45, low 23, rain .01 . . . "IN THE PAPERS" is the new column in The Bulletin open for clippings about Tryon. George Donoghue left on the typewriter the other day this clipping from the Miami, (Fla.) Herald: "Because it has a package of weather all its own, and unlike any climate in the South, Tryon has become established as the only strictly winter resort in the Southern Appalachian Mountains. Its in-between weather ranges from 40 to 60 degrees. Consequently, activities of the resort are largely outdoors, with hunting, riding and golf emphasized." . . . Another interesting clipping was an ad in The Tryon Daily Bulletin advertising meat at 20c per pound. Burley Williams had the ad and took it to Farthing & Swann where the meat was offered for sale, but Tom Langford looked at the date of The Bulletin and it read Sept. 1931. "You are out of date", said Tom, "and this ain't Williams' Market." . . . Miss Margaret Cline, Home Demonstration Agent, has been named co-chairman of the Polk County Infantile Paralysis campaign. She will work through the Home Demonstration Clubs and

Continued on Back Page

JOHN M. POLK

John M. Polk, died Monday night at his Tryon home in Gillette Woods after an illness of several months. Funeral plans have not been announced.

He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Virginia Brand, niece of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Flynn and of Lady Astor. Two small children also survive.

Mr. Polk was a lawyer by profession. He served as a naval officer in World War II on Admiral King's staff. His father, Frank Polk, was assistant secretary of state in Woodrow Wilson's cabinet.

* * *

"The real gentleman should be gentle in everything, at least in everything that depends on himself,—Carriage, temper, contructions, aims, desires. He ought, therefore, to be mild, calm, quiet, even, temperate—not hasty in judgment, not exorbitant in ambition, not overbearing, not proud, not rapacious, not oppressive; for these things are contrary to gentleness." When I read these lines this morning, I immediately thought of Jack Polk.—A Friend.

Congregationalists Hold Annual Supper Meeting At Church Wednesday

The members of Erskine Memorial Church and friends who attend the church will meet Wednesday night at the church for the annual supper-meeting at which time reports of committees and election of officers will take place.

The supper will be served at 7 o'clock by the Women's Society.