COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

At the annual meeting of the Tryon Golf & Tennis Club the members accepted the resignation from the Board of Directors of Montgomery Whaling, with great regret and sincere appreciation of his many services to the club.

There is no complete record of what he has done but where termite had eaten away the wooden foundation on which the club house stood, and when the building was about to settle to the ground, he put in a stone foundation. This called attention to the water which poured down the slope behind, mostly into the cellar, and provision was made to divert the flow. Then the wooden flooring of the porch began to weaken and it was replaced with cement, which required a large fill to supply it. Stone steps were added and stone edging for the pathways.

The addition to the Pros' house, the new tool house and the Edgar Rowe Memorial Fountain were built by him and for all of these improvements Mr. Whaling engaged the workers, ordered the materials, personally supervised the work, and then paid many of the bills.

The savings in architects' and contractors' fees made for further economies and the main building was given a new and much needed lease of life.

Fortunately Mr. Whaling has resigned only from the Board, not from the Club.

Mrs. Ernst Mahler of Neenah, Wis., will arrive today for a stay at her Tryon home, Chinquapin Farm.
