TRYON, N. C. TUESDAY, JUNE 28TH, 1949

Weather Monday: High 94, low 73, rain .01 . . . Gee! aint it hot! That's not a question, but a statement of fact. It's the regular normal thing that happens every summer nearly everywhere except high in the mountains and in polar regions. However, one of the coolest places around here is Pearson Falls glen which is almost completely shaded with tall trees; and the high water fall tumbles down scattering a cooling spray and creating a breeze that flows down the glen along with the water over thousand miniature falls. It is nice to lie on a blanket on a huge rock in the middle of the stream and be lulled into restfulness and sleep by the comfortable breeze and roaring waters that "run at the rapids and leap at the fall" and leave you with no care at all . . . New York has had no rain in 32 days and the dry hot weather in the north and east has killed many people. We are fortunate in getting only a few hours of extreme heat. . . An employee of the Adams-Millis Corp., says that isn't so about company interference with the union election. In fact he said he was told not to do anything to interfere.

HUDSON RITES TONIGHT

A memorial service for Miss Frances Hudson, who died Sunday noon, will be held tonight at 7:30 at the Erskine Memorial Church in Tryon with the pastor, the Rev. Frank W. Murtfeldt, officiating.

No flowers are requested; instead a memorial in the church for her has been suggested. Gifts for this purpose may be given to the pastor.

Richard G. Hudson, a nephew of Miss Hudson, arrived by plane Monday from Illinois to attend the service and to qualify as executor of the estate with Nelson Jackson Jr. as co-executor.

Miss Hudson's brother, Bentley Hudson, of Moweaqua, Ill., and her sister, Dr. Julia Hudson, of LaGrange, Ill., formerly of Eau Claire, Wis., are unable to be present.

Officers of the Erskine Memorial Church have expressed great appreciation of Miss Hudson's faithful service to the church organizations since making her home in Tryon for more than 30 years.
