CLEAN OUT BREADBOX

It is important to give food containers scrupulous attention in hot weather. Bread and cake boxes readily accumulate bacteria that quickly spoil even a fresh loaf.

The containers should be washed weekly, both inside and outside, with hot, sudsy water followed by a rinse of boiling water to kill any mold. Dry with a clean dish towel, and leave the open box on the window or out of doors. This allows air and sun to complete the sweetening.

Have You Been Counted?

The unofficial returns for the 1950 census covering the population for the Town of Tryon has been a matter of concern to the town government. The town receives a portion of the intangibles tax, gasoline tax, the public utilities franchise tax and other revenue from the North Carolina Department of Revenue. All such distribution is based in part upon population figures. The apparent decrease in the population of Tryon during the past ten years may mean that Tryon will not receive as much revenue during the next ten years as it is rightfully entitled to. There have been a number of cases reported which seem to indicate that residents in the corporate limits were not counted in the recent census. The Department of the Census has provided the Town Manager with forms whereby anyone who was not enumerated may be added at this time. If you were not counted in the regular census or if you know of anyone living within the Town limits who was not counted, please call at the Town office where the proper form will be completed for you.

We feel that it is the civic duty of every resident to see that the census gives Tryon a full count.
