

JUDGE MARX LIKES PENN. DUTCH STYLES

The Cincinnati Post some time ago published a feature story illustrated with four attractive pictures of Judge Robert Marx's country home near Cincinnati.

One picture showed Herright, a leader in the field of Pennsylvania Dutch carvings, fashioned with the German eagle on top of the pine cupboard at one end of the living room. The blue-lined cupboard holds some of Judge Marx's rare collection of spatter ware and slip ware."

Another photo portrays the living room mantel holding a row of pewter plates, a pair of brass sugar or flour scoops, gaudy Dutch bowls and a white ironstone pitcher filled with peonies and iris from the owner's much loved gardens"

A large center photo shows "A fine old hooked rug hanging over the mantel in the bedroom-study, and the interesting fireplace accessories include old molds, an iron toasting rack and an ancient implement used for trimming horses' hooves. Closet doors are hidden in the pine paneling at either side of the fireplace.

An outdoor picture features the screened-in porch at the back of the house where all the land one can see is part of Judge Marx's 1200 acre farm. On brick terrace are a grill and well-house.

The article stated that Judge Marx is of German descent and admires the handicraft of those people from the Rhineland. His country estate contains many antiques acquired in Pennsylvania and Washington, D. C.

Judge Marx is in Tryon now spending his annual fall vacation at his pioneer log house in Gillette Woods which has been equipped with appropriate furnishings of pioneer days as well as the most modern conveniences.

The judge comes to Tryon for horseback riding and the October sunshine. He is constantly improving his property here with numerous flowers and evergreens. He has camellias blooming many months of the year.

Besides his law duties in many states Judge Marx is an authority on traffic safety problems and tax matters. His hobbies are numerous and include sailing, tennis, swimming, travel, photography, golf and all forms of sports including gymnastics which he enjoys in the Y. M. C. A. His few weeks in Tryon twice a year are taken up mostly in horseback riding, taking pictures of beautiful scenes to show his friends, and growing flowers on his Gillette Woods property where he also has an outdoor grill for picnics.

With all his thousands of interesting things collected in Tryon, Cincinnati and his summer place on the lake, he tries to share his pleasures with his numerous friends.

FOR SALE: 3 casement windows in one frame. Each window has six 8x10 panes; complete with facing, screens and hardware. Reasonable. Mrs. C. W. Morgan, Phone 49-R.—Adv. 7, 9c.

??? BUILDING ??? AT SEVEN HEARTS

These for the Ranch Type house, an old street lamps (for the drive in); Angle lamps for overhead lighting, an early lamp set in an unusual long tin holder (leave it kerosene for those emergency times). Reflector lamps. Old tin toll gate lantern (Indiana), with lovely red glass chimney. Pine lazy Susan table, pine kitchen sink, hunt board, secretary pair of beds, chairs, low coffee table round, chests, little tables, dressing table and arrow back bench all in light wood. Other beds, rare ox cart seat. Cherry coffee table, large for magazines and lamps, etc., possibly behind a sofa or before the fire. —Advertisement.